

SUMMER PROMOTIONS 2010 VIETNAM'S BEACH RESORTS

Hoi An

Known as Faifo, it was an important trading port during the 17th and 18th centuries 40 km south of Danang. The picturesque town of Hoi An, with its unique character, is considered the most enchanting place on the coast. A mixture of Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Dutch, British and French influence, it retains the feel of centuries past. Its magnificent collection of almost 850 old structures and intact streetscapes just beg to be explored... a great deal of rustic charm and an ideal spot to relax!

Means of access: From Ho Chi Minh City or Hanoi's airport, allow maximum 1h15 flight (Daily flights) to Danang, then around 45 mn drive to reach Hoi An.

Nha Trang - Ninh Van Bay

Ninh Van is a peninsula only accessible by boat (10mn from Nha Trang). It offers a bay of 1 and half km long and 1 and half km wide at the widest point. The entire peninsula is private and belongs therefore exclusively to the "Six Senses" group. Ninh Van is thus an ideal place for persons in need of relaxing beach holidays on a private "island".

Note: As soon as clients reach the bay, boat transfers to Nha Trang or to return to the peninsula are organised free of charge by the hotel at every time of the day.

Means of access: From Ho Chi Minh City's airport to Cam Ranh's airport, allow maximum 1h10 flight or 1h40 from Hanoi's airport. Daily flights available both from Ho Chi Minh City and Hanoi, then drive around 30 mn to reach Nha Trang. From there and depending on the weather conditions, transfer to the peninsula is from the Ana Mandara's pier (more or less from March to August). Allow 30 mn by boat. When the weather conditions are less favourable, transfer to the peninsula is from Pearl Farm' pier (north of Nha Trang). Allow 30 mn drive then 10 mn by boat to reach the bay.
